

National League Moguls Go Into Session To-day With Draft Question Practically a Dead Issue

Charity to Get World's Series Money on Dec. 20, Says Landis

International Leaguers Start Baseball Pow-Wow Peaceably, Though Dunn Is Given Until Opening of the Season to Dispose of Oriole Stars

By John Kieran

The first day's session of the new International League's annual meeting was the occasion for a great gathering of the baseball clan in the lobby and corridors of the Commodore Hotel. Not that the league did anything startling in meeting assembled, or even expected to, but the annual powwows are to the diamond fraternity what the horse show is to our very best society.

In true drawing-room style it might be said: "My dear, everybody was there. That is, everybody who really counts, if you get my meaning. You should have seen that darling Gene McCann with the latest fall trousers from the tailor. And Jimmie Ringer—you know Jimmie, of course—well, Jimmie had on the sweetest overcoat, or was it a suit? I saw Judge Landis. I admire him so much—he's distinguished, you know. And wasn't fair just to cut for anything? They say that Bill Veck's pearl-gray fedora is the dapperst of the Chicago waterfront. Did you notice Wilbert Robinson's embonpoint? My dear, he has taken off 200 pounds by the Coast method and now he doesn't have to come in by the freight entrance. He can walk right in the front door. Fancy that. Yes, he repeats: 'Every day, in every way, I'm getting lesser and lesser.' Isn't it perfectly marvelous?"

However, in spite of the blaze of sartorial brilliance that the major league cast over the gathering, the International Leaguers managed to sneak off into a quiet corner and hold the first half of their annual meeting. What they did there can be chronicled in a few brief words.

They agreed to continue the 168-game schedule, and will open April 15 and close the parks September 23. This is in line with the delayed major league opening, which is practically assured for the spring. The opening engagements will be Buffalo at Reading, Syracuse at Baltimore, Rochester at Newark and Toronto at Jersey City. John Conway Toole and his supporters are to be once again swept into office without a murmur. The complete schedule will not be issued until after the schedule committee—President Toole and S. L. Robertson, of Buffalo—meets in this city in February. Their dates depend on the major league schedules, which have not yet been issued.

Dunn Must Sell Stars

There was no "draft riot." In fact, the International Leaguers considered the draft as dead as a smoked herring. Walter Hays, business manager of the Stallions Rochester Club, threatened to bring in a resolution against John Dunn, calling upon the Baltimore magnate to live up to his promise to sell at least three major league players to the Orioles. Jack Bentley is the only player of that team who has been sold as yet. The Rochester rebel was persuaded by President Toole that the time was not ripe to jump on the shoulders of Mr. Dunn, of Baltimore. Said Mr. Toole: "He has until the opening of the season to sell them. Give him time, and give yourself the air." Which was done accordingly.

It was rumored that Judge Landis was to descend on the meeting and thunder against "syndicate ball" with an anvil on his foot. The Baltimore and threatening gesture made toward the Dunn, senior and junior, of Baltimore, who were supposed to own or control the Newark Bears. Nothing of the kind happened. John Conway Toole said that it was proven that William Ashton, a Baltimore business man, owns the club; that he will build it into a real contender, and that "everybody is on the open end of the line." In order to straighten out the financial tangle that resulted when the new International League replaced the "old" one, Charles T. Chapin, former owner of the Rochester club, was asked to clean up all claims and incidentals and close the books on the subject.

Judge Landis did not intrude on the International League session, but he will appear at the continuation of the meeting at 11 o'clock this morning just as a distinguished visitor. He is expected to deliver a few well chosen words that will butter parsnips but are guaranteed to have no ill effects. The commissioner of baseball took occasion to say that the $120,000 charity gate from the tie game of the world's series will be distributed before December 20. It will be in the nature of a Christmas gift to those who need it most. Those who bet on the Yankees need not apply.

National League Confab To-day

John Heydler is all set for the National League confab, which opens today at the Waldorf. The directors meeting is called for 1:30 p. m. and the league session for 2 o'clock. The league president looks for a quiet meeting, which is just the time when some toasts in a banquet of bombs. Just quipping at one another and then, Mr. Heydler said that the draft question was as extinct as the dodo, the late opening was practically agreed upon, the world's series would not be moved to the end of the season, and the game was on. All the directors seemed to be working fine.

The directors of the National Exhibition Company, alias the Giants, held the annual meeting yesterday while the open season was on. All the directors were re-elected, and Jim Tierney was ushered into a new office, assistant treasurer to Judge McQuade. He still remains secretary just the same, and it was in that capacity that he announced the release of Carmen Speciale Hill back to Indianapolis, from which team he came to the Polo Grounds last summer.

John McGraw was encountered walking along the street and he reiterated his statement that Roush looks fine in Cincinnati uniform and should stick to it. Bill Veck said the Cubs were in favor of that, too. As soon as a few more assembly districts are heard from Roush will be elected to the Cincinnati outfield by acclamation.

Spencer Abbott, the "Big Chief" of the Memphis Chickies, has switched allegiance and will manage the Reading club of the International League next season. Chief Abbott won two pennants for Memphis, and is expected to pull Reading up a few pegs in the race. He also pulled himself up a peg in getting into a Class AA circuit.

Jim Boldt, owner of the Seattle club, came all the way from the Coast for the confab. He had with him his new manager, Harry Worton, who is not a bit new to the district. Many fans remember when Harry managed the Yankees in 1912, and some haven't forgiven him yet.

Bill Clymer is around like Mr. Mickey, waiting for something to turn up. The "Bills" are having a tough time of it. Billy Gilbert took a misadventure at Waterbury and landed them in second place in the Eastern League. All he got for that was the gate.

Notables noted in the lobby: Fred Mitchell, of the Braves; Jimmie Ringer,

Frazer Recognizes Chance as Manager

HARRY FRAZER, Red Sox magnate, announced yesterday that Frank Chance had signed to manage the Boston Americans for 1923, thereby surprising nobody east of the Mississippi River. In fact, "Andsome" Arty acted all in all as though he were the only person who didn't know it. He denied it frequently in tones of outraged dignity.

Everybody else knew all about it weeks ago. Frazer further says he is going to build up his club and make it a pennant contender under the "Peerless Leader" title. This can be under the head of "news" up Boston way, where Hon. H. Frazer is looked upon solely as an auctioneer of baseball talent. Pass the word to the Sacred Cod that better days are coming.

of Quakertown; Uncle Robbie, Bill Killefer, Squire Ebbets and son, Harry Frazer, Ray Cannon, attorney for the players union, or National Baseball Players' Association; Pat Moran, of Baltimore; Rochester at Newark and Toronto at Jersey City. John Conway Toole and his supporters are to be once again swept into office without a murmur. The complete schedule will not be issued until after the schedule committee—President Toole and S. L. Robertson, of Buffalo—meets in this city in February. Their dates depend on the major league schedules, which have not yet been issued.

Moore Scores Close Victory in Feature Race at Ice Palace

Joe Moore, the International champion, scored his first victory of the season last night when he defeated a fine field in the class A handicap race at a mile and a half, which featured the card at the 181st Street Ice Palace. Moore, who carried the Ice Palace color and started from scratch, was timed in 5:15 3/5.

The titleholder defeated Raymond Schwankamp, of the Morningglades A. C., by inches in a sensational finish, while Leslie Boyd, unattached, was a close third. Schwankamp had an allowance of seventy-five yards and Boyd started from the ten-yard mark. Moore trailed during the early part of the race, being content to make his bid with three laps to go. He made up a world of ground in his last spurt, but barely managed to get the verdict.

The summaries: One and one-half mile class A (handicap)—Won by Joe Moore, Ice Palace scratch; Raymond Schwankamp, Morningglades, 75 yards; second, Leslie Boyd, unattached, 10 yards; third, time, 5:15 3/5.

Half-mile class B (scratch)—Won by H. Petty, unattached, M. Weiss, unattached, second; time, 1:41 1/2.

Quarter-mile (handicap)—Won by Miss Nettie Doss, Ireland, scratch; Miss Peggy Conaty, Joe Boyd, 20 yards; second, Marie Doss, Tremont Club, 10 yards; third, time, 1:55 1/5.

Eckert Goes to Portland

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 11.—Charles Eckert, right-handed pitcher, has been purchased by the Portland Baseball Club from the Philadelphia Athletics. It was announced here to-day. He is expected to arrive at the city tomorrow. Eckert was obtained as part payment in a deal whereby Sammie Hale was sold to Philadelphia.

Miss Leitch May Duplicate White's Remarkable Comeback

News of Miss Cecil Leitch's probable retirement from golf is as disappointing as it is startling. The former British woman golf champion is one of the greatest women players that ever lived—none, in fact, ever showed harder hitting ability than she. Her exit from the game when she is right in her prime would be a distinct loss to the United States as well as to England. It is to be hoped she will recover the use of her injured arm soon enough to play next year.

Gardiner White, former metropolitan amateur champion, despite a serious injury made a remarkable comeback and therein is a remarkable story. It was just about a year ago that White, while adjusting the windshield of his automobile jammed his right arm through the glass. His right hand was nearly cut off and it was a wonder White didn't lose his life, let alone his hand. His doctors told him he wouldn't be able to play golf again for several years, if ever.

By the spring of this last season White had practically recovered from his injury. But the life in the hand had departed. The nerves had been injured beyond repair. To this day White has no feeling in the hand. It is virtually useless and has very little strength.

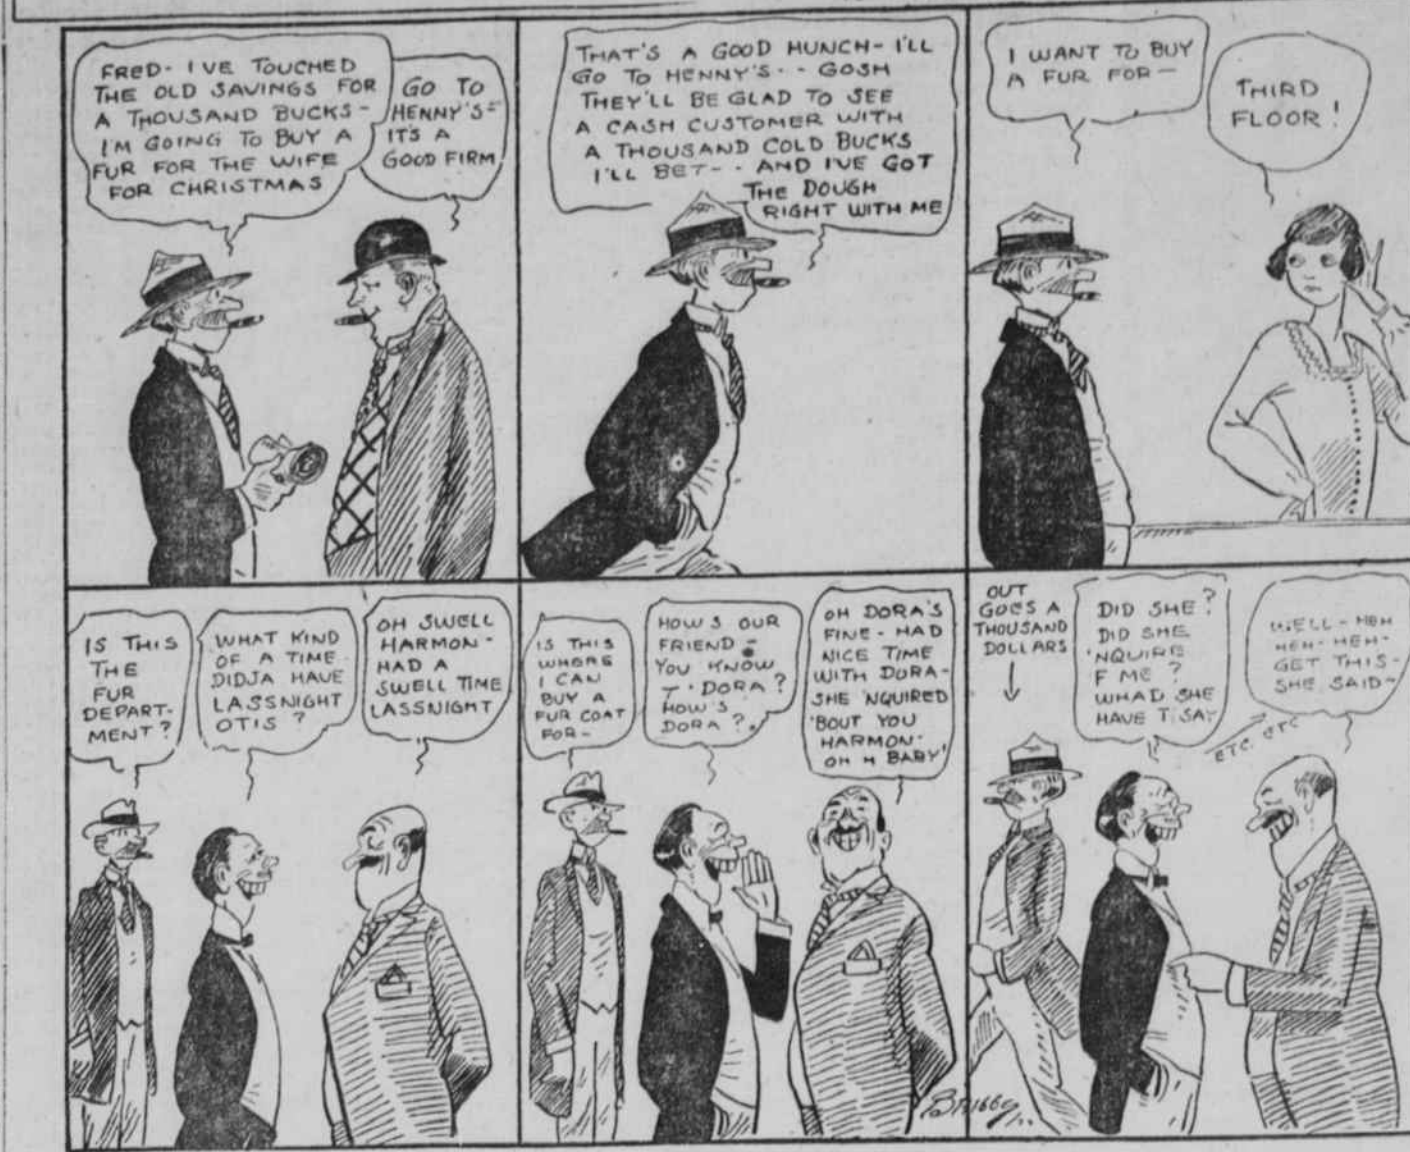

Used Famous Vardon Grip

Nevertheless, White set out to get back his game. He had his title to defend and he loves the sport. Before his injury the Nassau Club player had used the old-fashioned grip with the fingers of both hands gripping the leather, the thumbs straight down the shaft of the club.

He found on resuming play he could no longer grip the club in this manner. He had previously tried the Vardon grip, that is, overlapping his fingers, but it had found it impossible to use the grip successfully.

First, in getting back his skill he used a light driver—it was Mrs. White's in fact. Then he used a driver with Greenleaf (who a possibility. The next amateur meeting is scheduled for Westchester County. The open is likely to be played somewhere in New Jersey.

Amherst Baseball Team to Go South Again Next Spring

AMHERST, Mass., Dec. 11.—After a lapse of two years Amherst will again send its baseball team on a Southern trip during the spring vacation, it was announced to-day.

The schedule, containing twenty-two games, includes six games on the Southern trip. Newcomers on the schedule, besides those to be played in the South, are West Point, Penn State, Colgate, Colby, New York University and Trinity. Bowdoin, Brown, Columbia and Dartmouth do not appear on the schedule as usual this year, due to inability to agree on dates.

The schedule follows: March 29, University of Virginia at Charlottesville, Va.; 30, Washington and Lee at Lexington, Va.; April 1, Institute at Lexington, Va.; April 2, William and Mary at Williamsburg, Va.; 3, Georgetown at Washington, D. C.; 4, New York University at New York; 5, Yale at New Haven, Conn.; 6, Princeton at Princeton, N. J.; 7, Penn State at State College, Pa.; 8, Colby at Amherst; 9, Colgate at Amherst; 10, Harvard at Cambridge; 11, Brown at Providence; 12, Wesleyan at Middletown; 13, Williams at Amherst.

Columbia Harriers Again Elect Moore

Robert Moore, captain of the Columbia University cross-country team, was re-elected leader of the harriers for the 1923 season, according to an announcement made by the Columbia University Athletic Association yesterday. Bob, who is a member of the junior class, is a local boy, having prepared for college at the George Washington High School.

Moore ran on the freshman track and cross-country teams and won his letter on the cinders during his sophomore year, running third to Walter Higgins in the intercollegiate two-mile race at the Harvard Stadium in May. He was also one of the quartet that won for Columbia the junior four-mile relay title last year.

Incidents of a Round

More astonishing episodes can take place in golf than in any two games combined.

A short while back "Bud" O'Hara, of Syracuse, was engaged in an eighteen-hole affair with three companions over one of the excellent courses of this enterprising city.

One of the golfers, playing from the edge of a water hazard, suddenly opened a most unholly uproar, where his agonized cries for help bounded from the distant hills.

"Help!" he shouted, grabbing his trouser leg between the knee and hip, "I've been bitten by a snake!"

Friends rushed to his help and cut a large slit in the trouser cloth, showing a stream of blood running down his leg.

"He got me right," whispered the stricken golfer. But the blood came from a large bullfrog, who had been squeezed into a pulp by the interlocking grip of the golfer in question.

"Don't you think," writes L. P. S., "in spite of many rankings to the contrary, that Syracuse deserves a place among the first eight in the East?"

Undoubtedly. Any team that can meet Brown, Pittsburgh, Penn State, Nebraska and Colgate with only one defeat, and with a victory over Nebraska, one of the greatest teams of the year, should not be wedged in lower than sixth place, with only Princeton, Cornell, Army, West Virginia and Pittsburgh above.

Passing Reflections
The longer that I live and see
The brief rewards of skill and power,
The more and more it seems to me
How vain the judgments of the hour.

I've seen raw luck inscribed on skill,
I've seen skill wrecked of all its worth
By luck, where, peering from some hill,
I heard Fate laughing in its mirth.

I've lost to luck, I've won by luck,
As any other cove has done—
To hear again the ancient muck,
The same old yowp, "The best man won."

All those who ride the skyline heights
Are targets for a surer aim,
And those who dwell on lower flights
Have more fun often in the game.

The Expert
What is an "unplayable lie" in golf?
A few days ago we teamed up with Irvin S. Cobb in a hand-to-hand four-ball grapple with Robert H. Davis and John N. Wheeler over the St. Andrews course.

In the course of the combat one of Mr. Cobb's 200-yard wallows (he had several in this round) came to rest among a shoal of large rocks off the bank of a neighboring stream.

The ball, completely surrounded by these ancient formations of stone and earth, looked to be fairly safe from any further annoyance.

Mr. Cobb was surveying the situation moodily, when Bob Davis came up. "Well," announced Mr. Davis, by way of offering such sympathy as might be possible under the depressing circumstances, "it can be played."

"Yes," said Mr. Cobb, "it can—by a geologist."

More astonishing episodes can take place in golf than in any two games combined.

A short while back "Bud" O'Hara, of Syracuse, was engaged in an eighteen-hole affair with three companions over one of the excellent courses of this enterprising city.

C.C.N.Y. Forwards Are "Short and Snappy"

PROBABLY the two smallest men on any college basketball team are Jack Nadel and Frank Salz, left and right forwards, respectively, of the City College five. Nadel is 5 feet 2 1/2 inches tall and weighs 123 pounds, while Salz tips the beam at 5 feet 4 inches and scales 135 pounds.

The entire Lavender quintet, in fact, is the smallest and lightest that has ever represented the local institution on the court, the average height being 5 feet 6 1/2 inches and the average weight 147 pounds.

Size and weight, according to Coach Nat Holman, the C. C. N. Y. mentor, are not so important as speed and brains, and that is why Nadel and Salz are holding down the forward berths in the fastest machine ever turned out at the up-town college.

Manager Carter and cheer leader Collins also received letters. Thomas Donlon, leader of the band, was granted a letter inscribed in a circle. A captain will be elected Wednesday evening, when the football banquet will be held in the Hotel Karlovon. Because of the banquet, the basketball game scheduled with Williams was postponed until Thursday evening.

Amateurs to Box In Title Tourney At Garden To-night

Eighty-five entries have been received for the New York State amateur boxing championships, which will be held at the Garden to-night, tomorrow night and Thursday. The best amateur boxers in the East will compete in the elite classes to be contested, from flyweight to heavyweight.

In the 147-pound class Max Schwartz, of Stillman's Gymnasium, who, although a new comer, has been a winner in several open tournaments, is looked upon by his many friends as a likely winner in this class. He will, however, have his hands full in defeating such good boys as Vincent E. Kelly, St. Bartholomew's Club; Otto Wetzel, Paulist A. C.; Jack Carter, unattached; Sam MacClurkin, Long Island Center; C. C. C. Volez, Regin A. C. and John Hughes, Holy Name Club.

The featherweight class, 126 pounds, which should be the feature of the tournament, has without a doubt the best amateur boxers entered in the country. They are Harry Felix, Rutgers Gymnasium; Phil Bricks, Bronxdale A. C.; F. Lettmer, St. Jerome's C. C.; J. J. Appert, Bronxville A. C.; Herman Singer, Glencoe A. C.; Tony Vaccarelli, St. Lucy's C. C.; Charles Morris, Loughlin Lyceum; Hugo Sarno, Pastime A. C.; Paul Gullotta, National A. C.; Ray Davis, Trinity Club, and James Romano, St. Alphonsus Club.

Brooklyn Poly Mat Team Ready for Tiger

The Brooklyn Poly wrestling squad, present holders of the metropolitan collegiate title, opens its season Saturday, when they travel to Princeton to meet the Tigers. Though leaders in points, last year, the men hope speedily to avenge that setback.

The schedule is the hardest the Blue and Gray has ever had. Though Navy has been dropped, Cornell, the intercollegiate title holder, is again on the schedule after a year's absence. The schedule:

December 16, Princeton at Princeton; January 6, C. C. N. Y. at City; 6, Stevens at home; 13, Brown at home; 20, M. I. T. at Cambridge; 27, Springfield at Springfield; February 3, Cornell at Cornell; 10, Tufts at Tufts; 17, Cornell at home. Others pending.

Tufts Football Draft Shortened Two Games

MEDFORD, Mass., Dec. 11.—The Tufts football schedule for next fall, announced to-day, is shorter by two games than that of this year. Williams, Norwich and Boston University are dropped and Harvard is added.

The games follow, all being played here unless noted: October 5, Connecticut Agricultural College; 13, Bates; 20, Wesleyan; 27, Middlebury (games undecided); November 3, Harvard at Cambridge; 10, Bowdoin; 17, Massachusetts Agricultural College, at Amherst.

Columbia to Elect Captain

All members of the Columbia football squad who participated in any Blue and White gridiron contest this year are eligible to take part in the election of the football captain for the 1923 season to-day. Captain Walter F. Koepfich seems to be a unanimous choice for re-election inasmuch as he has done the best work for the year and is a junior.

Richards Resigns as Coach at Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 11.—John R. Richards, who has acted as head coach of football at the University of Wisconsin for the last five years, formally advised the university athletic department to-day, that he could not be considered for reappointment to the coaching staff next year, Tom E. Jones, athletic director, announced this afternoon.

Wisconsin's poor finish after what looked like a promising season probably induced Richards to resign. Some of the alumni, it is said, have been wanting a change in the coaching staff. It is not known who is likely to succeed Richards, although John Wilce and Bob Zappe, of Ohio State and Illinois respectively, both graduates of Wisconsin, have been mentioned.

W. Virginia Eleven Braves Muddy Snow In Long Practice

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 11.—A field heavy with mud and snow did not stop Dr. Spears in driving the West Virginia football squad through one of the longest and most strenuous signal drills of the year to-day in preparation for the Christmas Day game at San Diego. Spears realizes that only a week remains before the train is boarded for San Diego and that heroic measures must be used to get the men in physical shape after their ten days' lay-off.

Tallman, veteran end, reported with a bad leg, which has not fully healed since Thanksgiving, was used for only a brief period in the drill. Spears announced that he would put on no scrimmages at all, but that his grass drill, justly famous here, would play a big part in conditioning the men. The matter of officials for the Christmas Day game is now being discussed by wire with both San Diego and Gonsaga authorities, and it was announced that the Mountaineers submitted the names of Ederman, Hackett, Knight, Magdison, Thompson and several other Eastern and Middle Western officials. It is understood that two Pacific Coast and two Eastern or Middle West men will be named for the game.

It had been practically decided that the West Virginia team will leave here on Tuesday morning, December 19, so as to arrive in San Diego in time to give opportunities for two practices on the field where the game will be played.

The football committee of Ohio University is taking plenty of time to select a successor to Frank O'Neill. There is no call for any hurry on this time, the committee wants to be sure it has obtained the best man available. It is likely that the new man will not be engaged for another year or two.

Meanwhile there are rumblings in Philadelphia that old John Heilmann will not return to Penn. Whether or not the Red and Blue will probably make sure Pittsburgh is according to all reports, was an undue aid to Heilmann this year.

Lafayette Grid Heroes Are Awarded Letter

EASTON, Pa., Dec. 11.—Twenty members of the Lafayette College football team were awarded a variety letter at a meeting of the Varsity "L" Club here this afternoon. Thirteen members of the team were present. They were: Ford, Berry, Conti, Deibel, Mitinger, O'Connell, Brunner, Gazella, Brennan, Gebhart and Crute—played in the necessary number of quarters, while Chisnokski, Millman, Ernst, Markel, Meekins and Ackers were given letters by special awards.

Manager Carter and cheer leader Collins also received letters. Thomas Donlon, leader of the band, was granted a letter inscribed in a circle. A captain will be elected Wednesday evening, when the football banquet will be held in the Hotel Karlovon. Because of the banquet, the basketball game scheduled with Williams was postponed until Thursday evening.

Boxing Entries Close Thursday

Entries for the Cressant Athletic Club amateur boxing tournament, to be held on December 19 and 21, will close next Thursday. Four classes will be contested, namely: 112 pounds, 115 pounds, 138 pounds and 145 pounds.

Commercial H. S. Quintet Downs Eastern District

Before a crowd of 700 students at the 13th Regiment Armory, Brooklyn, Coach Lehrer's Commercial High five downed Eastern District High School, 19-10, in a battle and eleventh consecutive victory. The game was a closely contested one, and both teams held their own.

In a preliminary game between the Commercial quintet and the Easterners the former won by the score of 21 to 18. Neudelman, of Commercial, was the outstanding star.
